

Don Williams True Love August, 1990

*The nineties were a period of consistency for Don Williams, who released True Love on August 7, 1990, the first of five albums he would record during this decade. The album was released on RCA Records, the second of three albums he would record with the label. The title track, written by Pat Alger, charted at number four, while “Back in My Younger Days,” written by Danny Flowers, charted at number two in the U.S. and number one in Canada. The Bob McDill penned, “Lord Have Mercy on a Country Boy” became Don Williams’ last top ten single, peaking at number seven.*
